Professor DeWitt,

Victoria College.

Dear Professor DeWitt:

I am glad to send you one dollar to help towards the expenses of entertaining the teachers of Classics in the High Schools.

With regard to a topic for the Classical Association I rather think that in the Christmas holidays I shall write an article on"The Place of scientific method in the treatment of literature as illustrated particularly from the New Testament". How do you think that would suit?

I am,

Yours sincerely,

President.

Professor De Witt,

Victoria College.

My dear Professor De Witt:

Principal O'Meara has asked me with a good deal of urgency to try to be present next Wednesday night at the Convocation in Wycliffe College when for the first time the College will exercise its right of granting honorary degrees, there being three distinguished Bishops to receive them. He would like to have the University represented on that occasion.

I told him that if I could get you to release me from my promise to the Classical Association I would attend. May I ask you in the circumstances to set me free, though with regret I ask it, from my promise to be present at the meeting of the Classical Association? It is just possible that I may get in before the end of the meeting.

Yours sincerely,

President.
